- Songs for Kids of All Ages with Bill Ackerbauer

Bill Ackerbauer, lead singer of the American trio group The Doghouse Carpenters, will give a solo performance to get kids excited about participating in live music! He will encourage sing-alongs, movement and silliness as he performs traditional and original material with guitar, banjo, fiddle, harmonica and other instruments. Bill has more than 20 years' experience as a singer, songwriter and multi-instrumentalist.

Wednesday, July 24 @ 1:30 PM - Event to be Held at Easton Library

- Reptile Adventure

This nature show will be an overview of reptiles and amphibians. Reptiles will be explained, where they live and their native ecosystem. A variety of animals from all over the globe and different habitats will be viewed. Topics include what the animals eat, how they find their food, how they avoid their predators, and what related animals can be found in New York. Every reptile adventure presentation involves allowing the audience members to touch and feel the animals. At least one animal, usually a turtle or lizard, will be fed either insect prey or fruit.
