MAKING SOLAR FARMS COMPATIBLE WITH AGRICULTURE

- July 25
- Food and energy are two basic needs, yet as we see acres of solar panels occupying agricultural land, it makes many wonder if they conflict with each other. Because they are new, the concept of solar farms raises lots of questions. The Easton Library hosted a panel discussion at Burton Hall, “Making Solar Farms Compatible with Agriculture” to raise and explore the questions about solar farms in farming communities.
- The panel speakers include:
 - Ed Johnson, landowner in Easton
 - A representative from CS Energy : a solar farm development company
 - Bob Stevens, Easton Planning Board Chairman
 - Laura Chadwick, Director of Washington County Real Property Tax Service
 - Ashley Bridge, contract grazier for solar farms
 - Rachel Czub, West Wind Farm.
 - MC: Aaron Gabriel
- Total Attendees: 46

MUSIC JAM SESSION

August 18

Easton Library hosted a Music Jam-Session, with Cliff DeCarlo, local guitar enthusiast, leading the session.

Cliff and a few of his bandmates played a wide assortment of songs from rock to the blues.

Everyone, of all skill levels, who are interested in music was encouraged to attend to have some musical fun! Even come to listen. Especially if people play an instrument, like to sing or just really love music and want to make music with other local musicians.
